Voters to decide on stepped-up police protection

In the face of a petition calling for a special town meeting to vote on appropriating funds for an enlarged police department, Bethel selectmen are expected to set a date for such a meeting shortly.

They were supposed to act on the petitioners' request at their regular Monday night meeting. However, for the first time in anyone's memory, there was no quorum, and thus no meeting.

Only Selectman Pat Doon and Selectman Arthur Gilbert showed up. Town Manager Rodney Lynch explained that Chairman Arlan Jodrey was in New Hampshire on pipeline business, Selectman Victor Coolidge had taken a job at Boise and was starting Monday night, and Selectman Peter Haines was busy with a project by the river. Mr. Lynch was going to try to arrange for the selectmen's meeting to be held later this week.

The petitioners turned in petitions with 157 signatures. Only 119 signatures were needed to call for a special town meeting.

The petitioners want to see two additional police officers (in addition to the town's present one full-time officer) spending 32 hours each on the job. They want to also see a fourth police officer spend eight hours a week on the job. They estimate that the increased police protection will cost an additional $22,000 on the town budget, and they want to see this amount raised and appropriated.

N.E. trappers' weekend coming up in E. Bethel

This coming weekend will see the annual New England Trappers' Weekend take place at Neil Olson's, on the East Bethel Road.

The weekend activities will go from Friday morning to Sunday afternoon and will feature such events as predator calling, old time sets, canines, taxidermy, lures, dip, fox, woodstream, water animals, tree hounds, canoeing, fur sewing, bear, beaver, post set, 330 set and an auction on Saturday night.

There will be fishing for the kids in the pond.

Newry assessors revalue undeveloped building lots

The Newry selectmen/assessors spent Tuesday morning revaluing building lots in town. Selectman Roger Hanscom said the revaluation was necessary since lots in development areas—such as Sunday River Village and Jeff Yates' development on the Sunday River Road—were doubling and tripling in market value. The revaluation should bring assessed value more in line with market value, he said.

The selectmen noted that tax receipts were coming in well and pointed out that the discount period ended this week. Taxes unpaid by October will have late charges added to them.

Of the taxes collected, $80,000 has been put into money market funds, to draw interest until needed.

The auditor finished the town's books and found them quite satisfactory, according to Selectman Hanscom.

Tierney guest of county Democrats at Bethel supper

The local Democratic Committee held a supper last Thursday, Aug. 14, to benefit the re-election campaign of State Rep. Jeff Mills. The event was attended by nearly 100, who enjoyed a buffet of hot dishes, salads, rolls and pies.

Members of the supper committee were Mary Keniston, Irene Mills, Leah Deegan, Dan Cousins, Paul McGuire, Cathy Newell, Hazel Newell, Karen Bean, Ginger Kelly, Marvin Ouwinga, Mac Davis, Jeff Mills, Robin Lee, with help from Charlie and Martha Newell.

Maine's attorney general and Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Jim Tierney, was the special guest of the evening. He spoke about his views on education, underscoring his support for the recent educational reform act, but emphasizing that the next administration will have to provide relief for towns from reliance on property taxes to fund educational reform. He also emphasized the need for higher levels of education due to the changing nature of employment and described education as a life-long process with a need for adult education opportunities, as well as continued excellence in Maine's university system.

The attorney general introduced Rep. Mills, highlighting the local representative's record of accomplishment for his district in road improvements, and his state-wide reputation as a leader in the field of nuclear waste disposal. Rep.

Summer School Director Dan Hart noted that this year's students took their course work very seriously and maintained higher grade averages than in the past two summers. Mr. Hart also wishes to thank teachers Bernice Caddigan, Sherry Higgins, Mike Gilbert and Rod

Spanish students to visit area in summer of '87

The Bethel Rotary Club is coordinating efforts to bring a group of Spanish students to this area.

It is planned that next summer a group of about 20 students and five chaperones from the Spanish village of Mijas will visit this area for two weeks. The students visiting will be between 11 and 14 years old, and will be selected competitively by the village's educational and cultural committee. The visit should help these students, and others in the village, to gain a better understanding of the people and of life in the United States.

The initial planning for this visit was done by villagers in Mijas. This came to the attention of Bob and Dorothy Greaney. The Greaneys live in Andover summers and in Mijas winters. They suggested that this area would be a good place for the students to visit, and in turn are working with the Bethel Rotary Club to make the necessary arrangements.

A meeting will be held at 7 p.m. next Monday evening, Aug. 25, at the Telstar Regional High School lecture hall to provide more information to anyone who would like to help with this project. Host families and "tour guides" are especially needed.

NLRB dismisses unfair labor cases of Boise and union

The National Labor Relations Board regional office in Boston Monday dismissed the charges filed by Boise Cascade and the striking paperworkers union against each other. The cases, filed July 15 and July 17 respectively, charged the other party with refusal to bargain in good faith on a new contract. An NLRB official called the two cases "mirror charges."

NLRB official Roy Schoenfeld told The Citizen the charges had been dismissed and the parties were so informed Monday morning. President Don Barker, of Local #900 of the United Paperworkers International Union, expressed great surprise at the NLRB decision.

The NLRB's Schoenfeld, on the other hand, pointed out to The Citizen that two-thirds of all unfair labor cases raised with the federal agency are dismissed for lack of substance. Only one-third are considered to have possible merit. These are then weeded out further through further investigation and, if necessary, administrative court hearings.

Local #900's Barker said the union would appeal the NLRB decision.

Boise Cascade spokesman Andrew Drysdale said his company would also appeal the dismissal of its case.

NLRB official Schoenfeld said both sides have the right to appeal.

Blue Mountains arts/crafts festival October 11th-13th

The third annual Blue Mountains Arts and Crafts Festival will be held Columbus Day weekend at Sunday River Ski Resort, coordinator Paula Berry announced this week.

The arts and crafts festival began in 1984 in an effort to promote area craftspeople and their wares. This year, over 30 local artisans are expected to take part displaying a wide variety of crafts, including glass and clay items, quilts and fine art.

Ms. Berry said the weekend's activities would also include season pass picture day as skiers return to the mountain, Crisports Ski Shop's grand re-opening and fashion show, tours of the on-slope ski-in/ski-out condominiums, live entertainment, and chicken barbecue on the piazza outside the newly expanded South Ridge Centre. This is a chance for a final peak of the fall foliage season in the western Maine mountains.

It's time to settle the strike

The following conversation was heard in a hardware store in Rumford: "You — scab!" one man said to the other. "Waddya mean 'scab,' I'm on strike. I'm not crossing the picket line," the other shot back. "Oh yeah?" responded the first. "Aren't you taking work away from me?"

In fact, the striker was, unknowingly, taking work away from the other man—a Rumford roofing contractor. When the striker—one of the nearly 1,200 paperworkers who decided not to go into the mill until Boise gave up on some of its demands for a reformed labor contract—took on roofing jobs to tide him over the strike, he was indeed taking work away from the contractor.

The situation was similar to that facing the striker, as Boise management began hiring new workers last week to replace the striking paperworkers.

The hardship caused by the strike was spreading rapidly, and Governor Brennan was creative and correct in using his moral authority to get both sides to the Blaine House to resume their talks. (The talks originally broke down when the union refused to extend them past the June 30 end-of-contract deadline. Realizing their tactical error, union officials later said they were ready to negotiate again. But by their management had proposed a "final offer" and unilaterally implemented it.)

If the talks last week accomplished nothing else, they showed that the "final offer" is not really so final. Boise spokesmen first declared there was nothing more to negotiate, but soon changed their line to say that a new contract could, in fact, replace the contract implemented unilaterally.

That should not be all that difficult to do. Union officials have said they realize that the labor contract must be modernized to give management more flexibility in making work assignments. They say, however, that the mill should be divided into five areas for the purpose of assigning different jobs within areas. Management says only four areas are necessary.

Management should accept the union counter-proposal. The big hurdle is to get everyone to accept the proposition that workers must do eight-hours work to earn eight-hours pay—and the union says it's ready to accept that. That means workers occasionally doing work other than the jobs they were hired to do. This is fair, as long as the worker is trained to do the supplemental jobs and is paid at the rate of pay commensurate with the task requiring the highest level of skill.

Management should also satisfy union concerns that the grievance procedure is intact in order to be able to rectify any abuses that may occur in the name of job flexibility.

On other issues—such as Sunday double-time pay and overtime pay while on the vacation—the union should realize that the gravy train ride is over. The fat must be trimmed from the contract unless the jobs in the mill are to be lost permanently.

More importantly, Boise should discontinue hiring new employees as the talks work their way to compromise. The more new workers hired, the longer it will take for the wounds of the strike to heal after a new contract is signed. This is true not just for the displaced paperworkers, but for other workers—such as roofing contractors—who may suffer permanent loss of livelihood as a result of the strike.

The strike has now gone on over six weeks. Six weeks was the limit of the 1980 strike, and eight weeks was the length of the 1964 strike. Each side has now had the opportunity to realize that the other side is serious about its demands. And each side has now had the opportunity to realize that the other side is needed. Both sides must now settle their differences and get back to the job of making paper. bfw

Shuttle flies on wings of war

Somewhat lost in the White House announcement last week that a new space shuttle would be built was the statement that the NASA space shuttle program would henceforth be for the exclusive use of the military.

Thus, the militarization of America's space program is complete. The country—under the leadership of people who think nuclear warfare is thinkable—has now turned its back on the peaceful uses of space.

Back in the late 1970s and early 1980s, when the shuttle program was struggling to get funding from an unconvinced Congress, critics of the program complained that the NASA budget for the shuttle was really part of the military budget.

Not so, said NASA officials. The shuttle would be used for putting scientists into space, for launching—and retrieving—commercial satellites, for setting up space factories.

Amen, the Pentagon brass chimed in. We have no secret agenda for use of the shuttle and will wait in line for it just like everyone else, they said. Both NASA and the military stated publicly that the majority of shuttle flights would be for peaceful, commercial purposes.

Enter Ronald "Rambo" Reagan. If you like paying taxes to prepare for World War III, you've gotta like the guy.

But if you believe that a government's job is to promote the health and welfare of the citizenry, you must deplore the fact that in the few short years of President Reagan's administration the nation has lost sight of the fact that there is more to protection than weaponry. Taking a leadership role in the peaceful use of space would do more to enhance the welfare of this nation than spending ourselves into debt trying to blockade ourselves behind a high-tech barbed wire fence. bfw

CORRECTIONS

In the story last week about the Umbagog Lake hydro project proposal, the ridge between Richardson and Umbagog lakes, through which a tunnel would carry water to a turbine, was incorrectly spelled Corey Ridge. It should be Carry Ridge.

Also, in the report of craft demonstrators and exhibitors at Sudbury Canada Days it should have read Elizabeth Lord, quilling (not "quilling" as it was printed). Also, in clarification, the demonstrator of painting on wood and slate was Cynthia Mason of West Peru (not the Cynthia Mason who resides in Gilead).

New sodium labeling

If you're a sodium conscious consumer, you know that it has not been easy to find out how much sodium is in your favorite foods. Until recently, the food labels' ingredient lists revealed salt or other sodium-containing ingredients such as baking powder and monosodium glutamate (MSG), but the amount of sodium in the product was not given.

Now there is some good news for those trying to shake the salt habit. A new FDA sodium labeling regulation went into effect on July 1, 1986. This regulation requires food manufacturers to list sodium content for a single serving of food on the nutrition label. Sodium will be listed, under fat and will be expressed in milligrams per serving. For those products which do not display a nutrition label, the manufacturer has the option of simply stating the amount of sodium found in each serving on the package.

An important component of the new regulation is a "dictionary" of terms which manufacturers use to make a sodium claim:

- "Sodium-free"—means less than 5 milligrams per serving.
- "Very low sodium"—35 milligrams or less per serving.
- "Low sodium"—140 milligrams or less per serving.
- "Reduced sodium"—at least 75 percent reduction in the usual sodium level.

Although a product may be labeled as "salt-free," keep in mind that it is not necessarily sodium free. Many other sodium compounds may be used in processed foods. The terms "salt-free," "unsalted," or "no salt added" may be used on the label if: 1) no salt is added during processing; 2) the food for which it is a substitute is normally processed with salt; and 3) if the sodium content is shown.

Sodium labeling can help you to balance your intake for a meal or the whole day. Reducing the amount of sodium in your diet may be a healthful goal since most Americans consume far more than their bodies need. A goal of approximately 2,000 milligrams sodium per day easily meets our body's needs, yet the average sodium intake in the U.S. ranges from 2,300 to 7,000 milligrams each day. Salt, a major source of sodium, has about 2,000 milligrams per teaspoon or an estimated 200 milligrams per shake of the salt shaker.

One-third to one-half of the sodium in our diets comes from processed foods. Some of it is visible such as that found on snack foods. But most of the sodium is invisible in food such as dry cereals and commercial spaghetti sauce. The new sodium regulations will enable consumers to more easily control the amount of sodium in their diets.

For more information on how to reduce the amount of sodium in your diet, contact Wendy Legg Pollock, Extension Agent, at 26 Market Square, South Paris; telephone 743-6329. Request your free copy of the "Season It With Reason" booklet.

As I see it . . . . .

This month marks two important anniversaries in the history of atomic weaponry. One serves to remind us of the terrible consequences of nuclear weapons. The other bears testimony of our failure to control these weapons, but also offers hope that we might yet escape the nuclear quandary in which we have placed ourselves.

Forty-one years ago this month the world entered the atomic age with the sudden devastation of Hiroshima. And with the Bomb came the realization that never again could mankind accept the prospects of warfare with anything other than universal horror.

August's other anniversary records a far-less epochal event, although a potential milestone nonetheless. One year ago the Soviet Union began observing a unilateral moratorium on all nuclear explosions, including the testing of nuclear weapons. In the intervening months, Moscow has repeatedly challenged the United States to match the Soviet ban with one of its own.

Thus far the Reagan administration has refused this invitation. While Moscow has refrained from testing for the past 12 months, the United States has conducted more than a dozen tests. The administration's posture is unyielding, and it is one that strikes many of us in the Senate as shortsighted.

It is to our advantage that the Soviets not resume their testing. Both houses of Congress have produced overwhelming bipartisan votes in support of a comprehensive test ban. Opinion polls show impressive majorities of Americans favoring the negotiation of a test ban. Except for this administration, every President since the early 1950s, Republican and Democrat, has endorsed such an accord.

Still, confronted by an overpowering demand for a more forthcoming attitude, the White House has recently displayed greater flexibility on this issue. Last month U.S. experts met in Geneva with their Soviet counterparts to discuss—for the first time since President Reagan took office—issues relating to monitoring and eventually banning nuclear tests. An announcement that the talks are to resume in September can be viewed as an encouraging sign.

But sharp, even fundamental differences between the two sides remain. The Soviet Union gives every indication of wanting to arrange a total ban on nuclear testing, while U.S. negotiators insist that they wish to talk only about improved methods of monitoring the verities the Soviets want to abolish. Whether this basic disagreement can be bridged remains to be seen.

A new Soviet flexibility on an old sticking point—on-site monitoring—offers some hope. Particularly intriguing is a recently negotiated agreement allowing a private team of American scientists to install a dozen seismic devices at a Soviet nuclear test site in Kazakhstan. This is the first time Moscow has ever permitted foreign scientists to set up monitoring stations in Soviet territory.

Does this mean that the Kremlin is now willing to address American concerns about accurately monitoring Soviet test sites? Frankly, we don't know. But we should move quickly to explore what the Soviets are prepared to accept.

Time is running out. We have allowed an entire year to slip away since the Soviet ban on testing went into effect. We must hope that Moscow continues its unilateral restraint now that its moratorium has expired. We must also hope that the Reagan administration awakes to the advantages of negotiating a mutual and fully verifiable comprehensive test ban.

To push the White House in this direction, I recently voted for an amendment to the defense bill that calls upon the

Outward Bound staffers rescue stranded climber

Four members of the Outward Bound staff, in Newry, helped rescue a mountain climber who had gotten himself into a rock crevice on Bear Mountain and couldn't get out.

The incident happened Monday at South Waterford. Darrick Whitney, 21, a novice climber from South Paris, found himself unable to climb out of the crevice. His climbing partner, Ben Knight, also of South Paris, went down the mountain and brought back Game Warden Gayland Brackett, who stayed with the victim while the Outward Bound crew was called.

Four rescuers showed up, and they had the victim lie a rope around himself so they could hoist him out of the crevice. The four were Betsy Cooper, Paul Marcolini, Glen Thomas and Dan Lowell. Dennis McIntosh, of the Maine Forest Service, also assisted at the scene.

President to resume such negotiations. I have also co-sponsored a bill that would cut off funds for testing, so long as the Soviets continue to aide by their moratorium.

Both American national interests and world peace require that Moscow not resume its nuclear testing. The President should declare an immediate halt to U.S. testing and initiate serious talks with Moscow on a comprehensive test ban treaty.

— George Mitchell, U.S. Senate

July is always deadly on Maine highways

Twenty people lost their lives in 19 highway crashes in Maine during July, bringing the year's total to 107. That compares with last year's 111 on the same date, and the five-year average of 113. The report from the Maine Highway Safety Committee also showed half of the 20 July deaths to be alcohol-related. For the first seven months 56 highway deaths involved alcohol for 52 percent compared to last year's 57 percent at the same time.

Three pedestrians were killed last month as were three motorcyclists—one wearing a helmet. Only three of the other 14, killed in auto/truck crashes, were reported to be wearing safety belts.

Albert L. Godfrey, Sr., the Governor's Highway Safety Representative, and Director of Safety, Maine Department of Public Safety, read the report, and observed, "At least 10 of those victims would still be alive if they all had been wearing safety belts."

"It's very unfortunate that the majority of Mainers just will not buckle up yet so they'll have the advantage of using their only defense when a highway crash occurs," he said.

"Many lives are saved each year by safety belts," Godfrey concluded. "It will be really gratifying when enough Maine people start buckling up all the time so that we will see a real reduction in these gruesome statistics."

ATTORNEY GENERAL JIM TIERNEY, the Democratic candidate for governor, was the guest of honor at last Thursday night's Oxford County Democratic supper at the West Parish Congregational Church. The supper raised funds for the re-election campaign of State Rep. Jeff Mills (D-Bethel). Mr. Tierney told the nearly 100 people who showed up for the dinner that improved education would be one of his top priorities if he is elected governor. "Our dropout rate is actually going up," he warned the audience. He also said expensive changes in educational systems should not be a burden on the property tax. "It's incumbent upon the state to pay for those changes."

NLRB DISMISSES

The union still has a number of other cases against Boise pending. On July 31, the union accused Boise of trying to coerce workers to return to work by threatening to tamper with their workers' comp and disability insurance coverages. On Aug. 6 the union charged that Boise had made unilateral changes in previously agreed-upon contract language when it issued its "final offer" July 1.

NLRB will render a judgment on these additional charges in the next two weeks, officials in Boston said.

Meanwhile, on the negotiations front, all movement halted, as the talks convened in Augusta last week at the governor's behest ended after four days. "They got nowhere," commented Boise spokesman Drysdale.

Meanwhile, on the negotiations front, all movement halted, as the talks convened in Augusta last week at the governor's behest ended after four days. "They got nowhere," commented Boise spokesman Drysdale.

Local #900 Vice President Ron Duguay, of Bryant Pond, told The Citizen the union had made three concrete proposals to Boise during last week's talks, and each one was rejected. He said the most important one was an offer to go back to work immediately under the old contract and submit the points at issue between the two sides to binding arbitration.

Boise spokesman Drysdale, commenting on that proposal, said, "They introduced absolutely nothing new at the four days of talks." He said there is no old contract to go back to. All there is is the new contract—based on Boise's final offer—which was implemented July 21. (Last week, Boise spokesman Sam Donaldson told The Citizen the new contract could be immediately superseded by a signed contract with the union.)

Mr. Drysdale said Boise will try to hold talks this week with UPIU leaders to try to get their agreement on subcontracting out 350 maintenance jobs formerly performed by Local #900 members. Asked why it was necessary to discuss the point with the union, since the new contract had already been implemented, Mr. Drysdale said, "We have to bargain in good faith."

Boise also plans to re-open talks with the electricians' union. The electricians have not crossed the UPIU picket line since their own contract expired July 31. However, the electricians have not gone on strike.

Mr. Drysdale said the discussion with the IBEW (International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers), which represents 60 electricians in the mill, will inform them that their jobs will be sub-contracted out if they don't return to work. The electrical work is already being performed by sub-contractors and salary personnel.

Meanwhile hiring continued to replace the striking paperworkers. Mr. Drysdale declined to say how many new workers had been hired. "Significant large numbers of folks," was the only way he would describe the new employees.

The union's Ron Duguay said less than 50 have been hired.

Boise continues to take applications for employment in Bangor and at the mill. Mr. Drysdale said the total number of applicants now totals over 1,500.

As for prospects for any further talks on a new contract, Mr. Drysdale said: "Nothing's planned, but we're certainly open to anything the federal mediator might want to call."

Federal mediator John LaPoint declined to answer question about the negotiations, referring all questions to the state personnel commissioner, David Bustin. Mr. Bustin did not return phone calls from The Citizen.

Mediator LaPoint, before the strike started, told The Citizen, "The objectives laid down by the company are extreme-

EPA guide on radon available to the public

A pamphlet designed to better inform individuals about the health effects of the radioactive gas radon is now available to the public, according to U.S. Sen. George Mitchell.

Sen. Mitchell said the pamphlet, "A Citizen's Guide to Radon," explains what radon is, why it threatens human health, and what risks are related to various levels of exposure.

The pamphlet was written by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Copies can be obtained by writing to any of the senator's field offices or to the Division of Health Engineering of the Maine Department of Human Services, State House Station 10, Augusta.

Radon is a naturally occurring gas created by the decay of uranium and radium deposits in soil. National concern over radon has increased recently in recent months with new reports of its potential deadly effects.

Radon can enter homes through dirt basement floors, cracks in concrete floors, floor drains, sump pumps, and cracks in hollow-block basement walls. It can also enter well water and be released into a home when showers and other faucets are used.

The EPA booklet explains how radon detection devices work. Kits to test for radon in the air and water are available for a small fee from the Division of Health Engineering of the Maine Department of Human Services.

Sen. Mitchell added that a second EPA pamphlet will soon be released describing in greater detail what individuals can do to reduce radon levels in their homes.

He also predicted that if the talks broke down, "There would be a first-class strike." The strike has now entered its seventh week.

TIERNEY GUEST AT SUPPER

Mills spoke briefly, highlighting his campaign plans and introducing other candidates present. Attending the supper were Rep. Francis Perry, of Mexico, who is seeking re-election, Jane Rich, candidate for registrar of probate, Frank York, candidate for county commissioner, and Alton Howe, who is seeking re-election as Oxford County sheriff. Rep. Mills expressed his thanks, and that of the supper committee, to all who donated food for the supper.

Following the supper, there was a meeting of the Oxford County Democratic Committee, chaired by Dennis Gray, of Norway. Plans were outlined for the fall fairs. Anyone who has time to donate at the Democratic booths at the Oxford County Fair or the Fryeburg Fair should contact Mr. Gray. There will be Democratic suppers in Buckfield in September, and Andover in October.

BETTERMENT FUND AWARDS $25,000 GRANT TO CEI

The Betterment Fund recently awarded a $25,000 grant to help capitalize the Enterprise Fund, a small business finance program of Coastal Enterprises, Inc. (CEI), the Wiscasset-based non-profit community development corporation. According to Ronald L. Phillips, president of CEI, the $25,000 grant from the Betterment Fund of New York was awarded under the will of William Bingham 2nd. The philanthropies of Mr. Bingham, a resident of Bethel who died in 1955, and those of his trustees have been directed mainly toward medical and educational areas through support of Maine educational organizations, as well as the Bingham Program of rural Maine medicine.

In the spring of 1986, CEI initiated its fundraising effort with a goal of capitalizing the Enterprise Fund at $1 million. Under the fund, CEI expects to provide financial and technical assistance to 50-100 Maine small enterprises through loans and guarantees of up to $20,000, or 50 percent of bank financing. Selection criteria include manufacturing operations, value-added product, innovative marketing and employment opportunities.

The Enterprise Fund is a response to the large number of small entrepreneurs in Maine, including an increasing number of women, whose business prospects may be limited by lack of capital or management assistance. Maine's economy consists mainly of small businesses, with more than 75 percent of the businesses employing less than 16 persons.

CEI also offers financial and technical assistance to large manufacturing and natural resources industry ventures. For more information, contact Ronald Phillips, president, CEI, P.O. Box 268, Wiscasset, Maine 04578, telephone 882-7552.

In 1981, disabled women who were employed were twice as likely as non-disabled women to be self-employed. One in every 9 (10.8 percent) employed disabled women were self-employed, compared with just over 1 in every 20 working women with no disabilities, according to a fact sheet on working women published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

THE BETHEL AREA HEALTH CENTER is nearing completion in the remodeled A&P building, on Railroad Street, in Bethel.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The board of directors met yesterday, Aug. 19, at the Casco Northern Bank. The following issues were discussed.

In this year's "Maine Guide to Winter", the Bethel area will have five pages, of advertising along with one page for Sunday River skiway. Also in publications, the chamber will have a quarter of a page in the "New England Skier's Guide." The chamber has purchased a full page in the AAA fall foliage guide, which will be out in September and October.

The Big E (Eastern States Exposition) in Springfield, Mass., is coming up soon—Sept. 10-21. Back-up volunteers are still needed to help out. Expenses will be paid. Call Chamber President Bill Riley (665-2226) or Chamber Executive Director Robin Zinchuk (824-2282) for additional information.

Woodstock and Andover schools Principal David Murphy said the district administration will issue guidelines for students going around the various communities seeking advertisements or donations for various school activities. The object is to stop businesses from seemingly being solicited for contributions every other week.

SAD #44 Adult Ed Director Cathy Newell mentioned that the high school and adult ed are working with the Bethel selectmen and Bethel Cablevision to activate the public access channel made available by the cable company to public entities. If anyone is interested in taking part in production of local programming, contact Ms. Newell or Telstar Principal Ted Davis.

Ms. Newell is also trying to get grants for programming to help small business managers in the area. Anyone interested in helping write grant proposals should contact Ms. Newell at the adult ed office at Telstar.

Rotary is helping sponsor a youth exchange program to bring a couple of dozen youngsters from a small town in Spain to the towns of the Bethel area next summer. Anyone interested in more details about this plan should attend an informational meeting next Monday, Aug. 25, at the Telstar lecture hall. On Sept. 3, at 7 p.m., at the West Bethel Union Church, there will be a second public hearing on the proposed update of the Bethel Comprehensive Plan. Direct-

New health center already 60% complete

The trustees of the Bethel Area Health Center are delighted with the progress to date of the new health center. General contractor Jim Knight and his work crew are on schedule and on budget, according to health center officials.

An interior design group of community people has been working on choosing colors, fabrics, curtains and furniture. The facilities committee is working on outside signs, landscaping and the finishing touches that will complete the project.

Interest has been expressed from specialists in nearby towns about utilizing the new center on a regular basis, either weekly or monthly.

tor Lennie Shaw, who is also a member of the Planning Board, suggested that anyone planning to attend the hearing pick up a copy of the proposed plan at the town office and read through it prior to the hearing.

The Boston Ski Show will be Nov. 13-16, according to Director Wende Gray. Anyone interested in having their literature distributed there or wanting to help out at the local booths should contact Ms. Gray or Paula Berry, at Sunday River Ski Resort.

The Maine Publicity Bureau will be updating its state road map and the directors voted to spend $250 to include information on the Bethel area on the reverse side of the map. Also approved was money for an ad in "Ski New England" magazine.

The next meeting of the board of directors will be Wednesday (not Tuesday), Sept. 3, at 7:30 a.m., at the Casco Northern Bank. All are welcome.

By VIVA WHITMAN

A little on the cloudy side as I sit down to type out a few words for the paper. Don't know what happened to last week's typing but see it wasn't in the paper. (Editor's note: It arrived too late.) Probably didn't have enough news in it to be put in the paper, or something. I don't get around as some do and get the best news. However, we have been busy this past week, having brother Tom with us.

Lawrence took Tom to see Alvin Yates' logging operations in New Hampshire off the Kancamagus Highway. He has other operations in other places but that is the one they went to see a week ago today (Aug. 8). Peggy came home from Massachusetts that day also. In the afternoon, Tom went to Stephens Memorial Hospital to visit Doris Lawrence who had had an operation on her hip. They were classmates in school and not many of the classmates are left so he wanted to see those he could. We were just getting supper ready when Kaye and Otto Blosssey, Peggy's daughter and husband from Florida came and joined us for a meal of fried fish and veggies. I was glad I had made some pies that day and didn't have as much left when all had eaten. We ended the evening by playing Trionomoes quite late. I was very tired but had enjoyed the company at supper time and having Peggy and Tom to play the game to end the evening. It is an interesting game to play.

Tom went to Bethel with Peggy on Saturday where they took in some of the activities of Sudbury Canada Days. Russell picked peas from the garden. I did a little of this and a little of that, whatever needed doing.

Sunday morning, Peggy, Tom and Russell joined Lawrence and Grace for breakfast and as I can't have them, I stayed home and started the washing that needed doing. I was glad of the good weather after the heavy showers of Saturday evening. We heard it strike when it lightened and it sounded nearby but we couldn't see any fire or anything so sat back down after looking all around and waited for the shower to go away.

Tom wanted to go to Edgcomb on Sunday to visit friends, Gil Whitman and wife, Elizabeth, and had asked Peggy and Russell if they would like to go. When they got back here from Lawrence's they asked me if I would like to go with them. As I had talked with my daughter on the phone while they were at Lawrence's, we had decided to go somewhere but hadn't made explicit plans so I called her and asked her to go with us. It meant taking two cars as the girls both have cars so we went to Lewiston to Wynona's home and I rode with her and the girls and both cars of people headed for Wiscasset and Edgcomb. Lots of traffic on the road as it was such a good day but had a safe trip down. Of course, we hadn't called ahead so no one was home when we got there. We looked around a bit as Gil does a lot of sculpture work and on the lawn, made from heavy aluminum I think, was a water lily, also some some birds and one or two other things he had done. I had never seen any of his work so found it very attractive. As they weren't at home, we headed on down to Boothbay to see the place. I had never been there, either, so found it interesting. We didn't go to the harbor but the tour through the narrow streets was nice. We went back to Gil Whitman's hoping he had gotten home but as he hadn't, we headed toward home and found a place to eat where we had seafood. A small restaurant but the food was delicious even though expensive. We came on and stopped at a large flea market we had seen on our way down and bought a few items. There were so many things one could buy if they were interested. Quite a place for one to spend time and see lots of pretty things. Wynona and I came on home and Peggy, Russell and Tom turned off at Cook's Corner to go to Bailey's Island. They met us at Nonie's when they got back and I came home with them. We all had a good day together.

Rained during the night but cleared a lot on Monday so Russell took care of some of the garden stuff. Peggy had to go back to Massachusetts and Tom went to find more friends to visit. In the evening, Kaye and Otto Blosssey called for a few minutes, then went to call on cousins of Kaye's. Peggy called to let us know that the friend she stays with had fallen that morning and broken a rib. She had been frightened by a snake when she took out garbage and had fallen. Hope she is doing well, now.

Laura Hutchins of East Andover came to take Tom riding on Tuesday. They went to Shapleigh hoping to find the tall bush blueberries but didn't get any to bring home. In the afternoon Tom went to visit more friends. His time here with us was getting short and he wanted to see all the friends he could before leaving on Thursday.

Tom was good and took me to the doctor's in North Bridgton on Wednesday after doing a few errands around town. He was going to go to Remy's store in Bridgton while I was at the doctor's but said the traffic was so thick, he didn't try to stop in town after going over. Got home to find Russell had picked string beans and was getting them ready to can. Got them taken care of and spent the evening playing Trionomoes again. Tom has seemed to enjoy the game and we have played it often. Lawrence came in and sat down for a game with us. Grace came a little later after getting home from her daughter's. She had gone up to visit Hilda Taylor and had helped her bag her Avon orders. It has been good to have so many of the family around.

Thursday and the day that Tom had to go home. We spent the forenoon playing Trionomoes and waiting for his son, Jeffrey Yates of the Sunday River Road to come to take him to lunch and then to the airport for his trip back to Colorado. We miss him already and hope he can come home often as we do enjoy having him here with the family.

I was glad to be home the week before when Margaret and Ralph Schnur called. I hadn't seen Margaret for years and it was great to see her if only for a few minutes.

I also wrote that in talking with another West Paris Granger that one or two of them are still picking up papers at the dump. They aren't coming to homes at this time to collect papers but are getting them at the dump. There are just not enough willing workers in any organization to do all that is needed and this is the case here. Some have so many other things to do that they can't always help even though they would like to. Hope all is well with everyone and having a good week of weather should have done a lot for everyone, hopefully. It sure has seemed good to see the sun and be able to get outside more. Take care, one and all.

The Eugene Heberts of Westbrook spent a weekend with the Louis Begins. Margaret Mitchell spent several days in the Sebago area returning this week with Kathy Moody as house guest. Kathy is a Florida-Maine resident with some roots in the Grafton-Upton area.

Arlene Bernier of Dallas, her daughter Maria Green and baby Kimberly Green of San Antonio, were guests at Heritage Farm and with other relatives for several days. Shannon Bernier who has spent the summer in this area is staying the winter with her uncle and family, the Lou Berniers of North Waterford.

Arlene Bernier, Arlene Bernier, Maria Green, and Kim Tara, attended the wedding of Jerramie MacColister of East Sumner. The rain threatened during the beautiful lawn ceremony, but became a reality only when the lunch was starting to be served—lunch, gifts and guests hustled indoors.

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE DAVIS

Mr. and Mrs. Kevin McGillicuddy and daughter, Danielle, called on me one day last week. Mr. and Mrs. McGillicuddy were just back from their honeymoon as they were married Sunday the 4th in Raymond. Mrs. McGillicuddy is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dean.

How are your gardens doing this year? My peas rotted on the vines. A terrible year for those, with so much wet weather. The wind blew the corn down over the cucumbers. They say the corn will stand up again, but it doesn't look like it now.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Clements entertained at a cookout at their home Sunday, the 10th. Hot dogs and hamburgers and smorgasbord was the order of the day. Those attending were their son, Eric and friend, Linda Lowe, Ray and Mary Miclon, the Jim Miclons, Alisha and Amanda, Ernie Bradbury, Tom and Jean Boyd, Richard and Ann Roy, daughter Suzi, Malcolm and Peggy Haynes, Felix and Sheila Otero-Otero. Games were played during the day, and best of all they had a fair day for it.

Friday afternoon, Aug. 8, a tremendous thundershower passed overhead at South Woodstock. There must have been two or three converging upon each other. I haven't seen one as severe as that in a long time. Everyone lost their lights for a while. The top of the butternut tree was snapped off.

A personal shower was tendered Lailani Poland in honor of her approaching marriage to Bert Bertram in Florida on Sept. 5, 1986 at 8:46 p.m. Although Lailani could not be present, the hostesses were Rosalie Poland, Lailani's mother, Nancy Herrick and daughter Charlene McCollister. Gifts were displayed by each and then wrapped at the South Woodstock Community House. Pictures were taken. Those attending included Tommy Poland, Joan Poland, Andrea Wing, Nancy Herrick, daughter Charlene McCollister and baby Heather, Faye Bumpers, Barbara Farr, Laurie Cox Lovell, Wanda Ryerson, Claribel Poland, Olive Davis, Esther Davis, Alice Allen, Rosalie Poland, Sandra Poland, Gina Poland, Lourene and Danielle Appleby, Kimberly Poland, and Annie Kilmre (Kim's friend). ## North Paris

By EVELINE B. VATCHER

The month of August is half gone and the black berries are ripe and very sweet. Joe Vatcher has picked several quarts for Doris Lawrence and also for himself. There are as many seeds as usual.

A heavy thunder shower Saturday afternoon Aug. 9 and the power was off for more than four hours. Mr. Cordwell's bed is run by electricity so Joe Vatcher went several times to move him in bed so he would be comfortable. When the power finally came back on Joe went again and put him in bed properly. Mrs. Cordwell with her hip cast is in a wheel chair and couldn't move him properly. They stay by themselves and call if they need help. The rain from all the showers has surely helped the gardens and the berries and we are thankful. After the shower we found the large crane was dead near the brook.

Marge Fuller of South Paris brought Doris Lawrence home from Stephens Memorial Hospital Monday a.m. For years Doris has gone barefoot at home summer and winter, but no more. She has to have a shoe on when she walks and cannot go out for two months.

Fred and Edward Westerlund, Saugus, Mass., and Durham, N.H., called on their old "boss," Joe Vatcher and Eveline Wednesday. A friend was with them. "Ed" will retire Sept. 17 from the town of Saugus, Mass. They had lunch and a nice visit.

The Community Club meeting was held at the hall Wednesday evening. The supper is Aug. 30, 5-6 p.m. with the usual menu and gingerbread and whipped cream. Voted to buy an electric ceiling fan for the hall and Ellis Ellingwood will install it next week. The committee to see about the land across the street is Warren Abbott, Harlan Abbott, Fred Oja, Joe Vatcher. Herbert Stevens was to report on the water line but he was unable to be present as he is on guard duty at Boise Cascade. He will report next meeting.

The next meeting will be at 7 p.m. Sept. 3 and will be followed by free movies to be shown by former members Robert and Dorothy Chamberlain. They have traveled extensively and have many slides to show. So mark the date on your calendar, Sept. 3 at 7:30 p.m. A light snack and punch will be served following the movies by Eveline, and Rhoda Labbe. Let's all go. The same slate of officers will fill the chairs for another year.

Callers at Lawrence's, Marge Fuller, Arnold Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher, Joe Kallowski, Frances Haney, Lena Kangas, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Penley Sr., Rhoda Labbe and Cornie, Margaret Stevens, Stevie Millett, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Card, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Joanne and Brianne.

Mrs. Margaret Stevens had her right hand operated on Wednesday but I can't tell you what they did.

Mrs. Marie Cordwell was given a birthday party Wednesday at her home.

her sister, Mrs. Muriel Butters.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Willard and family, Falls Church, Va., have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jay Willard and other relatives in the area.

Watch this paper for news of a new "flea market" shop opening!

Andover

East Andover
By LAURA HUTCHINS

This is a beautiful sunny day (Thurs- day) with just a hint of a breeze playing among the trees. The temperature fluctuations are unbelievable. At one point Tuesday the thermometer reading was 82 °F. Then we awoke to 40 °F. Wednesday morning. With the humidity gone and the dryer air present it seems more like fall weather than mid-August, but lovely anyway.

A reminder that the next public supper at the First Congregational Church will be Saturday, Aug. 23, with two settings (5:30 and 6:15) where baked ham, potatoes with parsley sauce, green beans, molded salads, hot rolls, beverage and chocolate or pumpkin pies will be served for your enjoyment. Hope to see you there!

On Sunday, Aug. 10, I met Mr. and Mrs. Preston Cobb and children of Bryant Pond in Bethel, where Mandy and Calla got into my car and we all motored to Lincoln, N.H., to Fantasy Farm and The Whale's Tale water park. We were joined there by my son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Adams, Robbie and Karen, of Sweden, and spent a family day together watching and feeding the many animals, birds and trout, enjoyed many of the rides and had a picnic. Later in the afternoon we went to Clark's Trading Post, two miles down the road, where we rode on the big train through "Wolfman" country, enjoyed the trained bear show and visited the old-time places along the Main Street featuring Americana at its best, antique horse-drawn fire engines, early gas-powered fire engines, antique pianos, organs, and calliopes, and the setting of an old-fashioned ice cream parlor where we got refreshed with a delicious cone of ice cream. A nice day of fun for all.

Mrs. Theda Wagner and friend, Pauline Eyster, of York, Pa., recently spent a day with Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Swain. Mrs. Wagner and Mrs. Swain are 1918 Club members.

While on a recent trip into western Pennsylvania, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Swain called on Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Dufresne in South Londonderry, Vt., also Gertrude Covey in Ulica, N.Y. The three ladies are 1918 Club members.

On Tuesday, Aug. 12, I visited brothers Russell and Tom Yates, and sister, Viva Whitman on High Street in West Paris. Tom and I took a ride down through to Shapleigh by way of Bridgton, Denmark, Hiram, etc., where I had been told one could pick from high-bush blueberry bushes without having to bend. It's pretty country down there. We found out roughly where they were located, but were cautioned that they probably were all gone so didn't pursue the exact location. I'll try again next year. I enjoyed a good visit with Tom along the way. He returns to Golden, Colo., today. His visits are always too short.

Mrs. John (Gloria) Donahue arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hutchins Tuesday night, to spend a week visiting relatives and friends in East Andover and Andover before traveling on to Vermont and New York.

Miss Jennifer Hutchins, Andover, returned home Tuesday night after enjoying a visit to South Palm Beach, Fla., at the home of her aunt, Gloria Donahue. For the past two days the evening grosebaes have been frequent visitors to the bird feeders, with their youngsters in tow. It looks strange to see mother feeding her "babies" that are nearly as large as she is. The coloring is a bit different, but the unmistakable sound they make let's us know who is here.

Our gladiolus are now sending forth a variety of spectacular colors. Mr. Hummingbird is kept busy and we see him working them many times during the day—such a delight to watch.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

The following is an imaginative description of a young British nobleman:

"He was mediaeval. Like a Gothic statue. Tall and refined, with shoulders that seemed braced square by an effort of the will, and a head that was tilted a little higher than the usual level of vision, he resembled those fastidious saints who guard the portals of a French cathedral. Well educated, well endowed, and not deficient physically, he remained in the grip of a certain devil whom the modern world knows as self-consciousness, and whom the mediaeval, with dinner vision, worshipped as asceticism."

By COLISTA MORGAN

In place of my usual column this week I have these tributes to my husband, Clyde Morgan; read at his service and requested by so many. Written by his family.

Has Beans (for Clyde) (but not "Never Was's")
(This title had a special meaning to him.)

Now the garden has gone to seed
With rows left unplowed.
The fruits of labor have turned to weed
Where they never were allowed;
But there was once a time
When the harvest was a promise,
Of sweet fruits for the vine
That awaited fortune's kiss;
But time that so endlessly gives
Is time that takes away,
At dawn warning all that lives
But cools at end of day
Has beans rooted forever together
On legs tired and twisted,
Leathered hands soft and weathered
Holds love's rose tightly fisted;
But what has passed away
Will yet always be,
That we harvest in its memory.

—David

Uncle Clyde

I'll remember his ready gentle smile on hot summer afternoons. And watching him walk out to his garden to spend quiet hours tending to nature's growth. I'll remember his reluctant chuckle and the glow of pleasure in his eyes at the sight of little children. I'll remember his interest in books and the light glowing in the night as he read and thought—I'll remember his strong and abiding love for a lovely woman but most of all—I'll remember his ready gentle smile.

—Sally

Farm-born

Clyde was part of the furrow,
He was part of the seed
Sown in his garden of sunshine,
To meet a hunger need.
He was one in the hayfield,
He was one with the corn,
He was a farmer's son
Tilling the soil where he was born.
In the sun above wide acres,
Through wind or lashing rain,
This was a part of his blood and sinew,
A part of his nerve and pain.
This was his heritage, his birthright,
All that he had known
Of wealth, lay in those treasured riches
Which he had claimed for his own.
After the work of a heavy day
And things had been quite taxing,
He chose his book or magazine
And found it very relaxing.
Beauty invaded his soul,
His cares would fall away,
And his heart filled with gratitude
At the end of a weary day.

—C.C.M.

Ruth Collins, Brunswick, is visiting her sister, Rena Curtis, this week.

Things have been very busy all week at the Hayes Homestead. There have been many gatherings and Sunday, Aug. 10, 49 members were there. On Saturday 22 enjoyed lobsters and clams.

Another lobster and clam cookout was at "Maplewood," the cottage of Milton and Eleanor Iman. This was a celebration for birthdays in the family. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Widberg of Canton, Mass., were here on Saturday, Aug. 9.

Life without friends would be forlorn and bare. I have been richly blessed and fortunate to have many call on me. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curtis had many callers on Saturday, Aug. 9.

Several residents on the Bear River Road (Route 26) have asked the selectmen when cable TV will be available to them. Selectmen Roger Hanscom talked with David Lee of Bethel Cablevision last Wednesday. At the public hearing on cable TV last year, Mr. Lee explained that it would be necessary to have 25 customers for each mile of cable before the service could be provided. As of this date, three miles of cable has been strung up Sunday River, with only 50 customers. Before more cable can be strung it will be necessary for more to sign up for the service. Mr. Lee stated that some time in 1987 would probably be the earliest that further service could be provided.

The annual Homecoming Sunday will be observed at the Newry Community Church Aug. 24, beginning with a picnic on the church grounds at 5 p.m. Everyone is to bring their own lunch. This will be followed by services in the church with area ministers participating. Ginny Walker of Bethel will be the soloist. Services will be followed by a hymn sing. Morning services will be held at 9 a.m. as usual with Rodney Hanscom as pastor.

Mrs. Lina Reynolds has returned to Florida after visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Daye, and other friends and relatives in the area for the past month.

BERRY REUNION

Lone Pine Campground in Newry was the setting for the 1986 Berry family reunion on Saturday, Aug. 16. "Hi" and Helen Berry served as hosts for the 77 family members and guests who came from seven states. Traveling the longest distance was Cindy Freeman Tibbets of Pleasanton, Calif.

After a delicious buffet luncheon, "Hi" led the younger set in a very exciting ball game, while others enjoyed horseshoes or swimming. A meeting, led by Marjorie Berry Menzies, the reunion coordinator, was held to introduce all the family members, guests and then group pictures were taken on the lawn. On display were numerous photographs and scrapbooks of earlier reunions and various ancestors. Family history books, researched and prepared by Claire Berry Cantrell, which traced the genealogy of Ralph and Helen Berry, were available to all.

The oldest member present was Verna Berry Dyke of Bethel and the youngest was Jeffrey David Needham of Lisbon Falls. Interviews were handled by Judith Costa and taped by Steve Cantrell.

Those attending from Maine were the hosts, "Hi" and Helen Berry, Larry and Denise Rodrick, Shawna and Heather, Jimmy and Marjorie Osgood, Erin and Wade, David and Nathalie Berry, E. Scott and Loretta Berry, Jason and Mandi, Verna Berry Dyke, Norman and Sylvia Clanton, Lisa and Keith, Vernon and Leona Eldredge, Leon and Vivien Violette, James and Mary Stevens, Christopher, Cheryl and Anne Marie, Bob and Sally Bouget, Scott, Jennifer and Nicole, Mike and Pam Stevens and Shannon, David and Peggy Needham, Michael, Melissa, Steven and Jeffrey, and guests Tammy Fieve, and Danny Giguere.

From Massachusetts were Marjorie Berry Menzies, Albert and Judy Costa, Albert Joseph, Jennifer, Andrea and Dominic and guests, Peter Joss, and David Dery, Lorenda Kingsbury and Brian, Paul and Karen McQuaid.

Those attending from Connecticut were Robert and Mary Stevens, Rosanna, Deborah, Robert Jr. and Mark Zigman, and guest Joe Moreira. John and Sandra Violette, Jonathan and Kelly, came from North Carolina and Gerald Freeman journeyed from Florida.

From the state of Georgia were Steve and Claire Cantrell, Robin Gibbs and Jeffrey, and Mark Freeman and Michelle, Sharon Gregorick and Cindy Tibbets arrived from California.

Many took advantage of the fine facilities and good weather and camped by Bear River, visiting several of the scenic spots in the Newry area. Everyone is looking forward to the next reunion which will be planned at a later date.

Notes from Adult &
Community Education

Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell is putting the finishing touches on the fall schedule of courses and programs for SAD #44 Adult and Community Education. Over 70 courses and one-session programs will be listed in the fall flyer which will be mailed to all boxholders and rural route patrons in SAD #44 early in September. The Adult and Community Education secretary, Alzona Sargent, returned to work Aug. 14, and the office is open weekdays from 9-3 at Telstar Regional High School.

The adult learning center met on Aug. 13 for its final session of the summer under the direction of Merrill Bitterner. One student passed the Writing Skills section of the GED exam, and another passed the Science section. One new student registered to begin brush-up work in spelling and math this fall, bringing the total learning center summer students for 1986 to 11. There will be evening learning center sessions in Bryant Pond and at Telstar, and in the morning at the Bethel Library this fall, allowing adults to pursue individual learning plans for brush-up in reading, writing, and math skills, and to prepare for the GED. The learning center sessions are distinguished from regular adult education classes in that students work at their own pace in areas of individual need under the direction of a teacher. Individual tutoring is also available for reading instruction at the home of the student, or at community locations. For further information contact Cathy Newell, 824-2780, or 824-2089.

Students who are planning to enroll in the adult high school diploma program this fall are asked to contact the Adult and Community Education office as soon as possible to arrange their schedule. This is especially encouraged for students who are new to the program. Contact Mrs. Newell to arrange an appointment. There are some exciting new possibilities for adults who are interested in high school completion this fall. There will be a televised GED Preparation series beginning in October on WCBH-channel 10. Students may enroll in the TV High School through the adult education program through the adult education program at SAD #44. An Apple IIc computer and some interesting educational software programs have been added to the materials available for adult learning center and diploma classes. This will allow students to become comfortable with new technology while have a different type of practice in basic skills. The External Credit Option program, under the direction of Randall Bennett, allows adults who qualify to study a wide variety of subjects outside the regular classes. These new possibilities complement the traditional high school diploma classes for adults.

Bethel Senior Citizens

The Bethel Senior Citizens met Aug. 13 at the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills with 42 present at 11 a.m. President Virginia Walker conducted the meeting. Reports were read and announcements made. The trip to Wolfboro, N.H., with a ride and lunch on the ML Washington was discussed. A full bus of 40 people is expected.

A food sale will be held in September and a reminder of the availability of the green bus, Western Maine Transportation Service, from Bethel to Lewiston or Norway or Rumford with stops along the way on Mondays and Tuesday. The fees are reasonable and the schedule convenient. Call 1-800-482-0170 for information.

It was noted that there are 95 members under 80 and 25 over 80.

Katey Coffin of the Oxford County Community Services spoke on Volunteering, especially on the benefits of working on Sub-Standard Housing Project Training Programs to learn carpentering and skills while helping others provides double benefits. More information on the subject is available also.

The September meeting is expected to be at the Rumford Point Church with Margaret Tibbets speaking on her trip to Russia.

Jeff Flint entertained with Magia... and it really was, preceded by a catered lunch by R.F.D. #1, and a birthday cake by Leona Flint.

Walking With Jesus Christ

Can't catch a fish? Well, let's read about fishing in the Holy Bible. Once a fish caught a man—guess he did not like the taste and coughed him up and onto the beach at Nineveh—where God wanted him in the first place. Book of Jonah 1:17 and chapter 2.

Some of the greatest men were fishermen—a hardy, coarse and unlearned group—at least so says Simon Peter, Andrew, Nathaniel, John, James and two others. We read in Mark 1:16-20 of Simon and Andrew at the sea. "Casting a net, for they were fishers" and "Jesus said unto them, 'Come after me, and I will make you become fishers of men'."

Well, it was after Jesus' death on the cross that the seven fellows did not know what to do. So, John 21:1 Peter said "I go fishing" and the seven went into a boat but caught nothing. Coming ashore they met a stranger—knowing not it was Jesus—who told them "Cast the net on the right side of the boat" and they caught many fish. Peter exclaimed "It is the Lord."

Jesus on the shore had a fire going with fish laid on it. He said, "Come and dine" and "taking bread—gaveth them, and fish likewise." Here we might look at the Book of Luke 14:15. "Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the Kingdom of God."

Let us look at the Book of Revelation and learn about the supper to be in heaven. As Jesus had invited the men to "come and dine" at the seashore he says in Rev. 19:9 "Blessed are they who are called unto the marriage supper of the Church—the ones who are written in the 'book of life'." Rev. 20:12 Mencing no words the Holy Bible verse 15) says "And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire."

Now the blessed ones are they who answer Christ's call "Come unto me." Coming to Christ, we must understand that to attend the marriage supper in heaven where no sin is allowed—we must be sinless. 1st Cor. 6:23 says "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ, our Lord." Romans 5:8 says "But God commendeth his love toward us in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."

As sinners there is a gap, a separation between you and God—a bridge is needed—and you can cross that bridge into God's family when you receive Christ by personal invitation. John 1:12 says "But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the children of God—even to them that believe on his name."

To receive Christ you need: 1) Admit your spiritual need—"I am a sinner." 2) Repent and be willing to turn from your sins. 3) Believe that Jesus Christ died for you on the cross. 4) Receive through prayer Jesus Christ into your heart and life.

What to pray: Dear Lord Jesus I know I am a sinner. I believe you died for my sins. Right now I turn from my sins and open the door of my heart. I receive you as my personal Lord and Savior. Amen.

Now, if you have made this decision and prayed—we will be glad to send you—free of charge—Billy Graham's booklet "Living in Christ" to help you confirm your decision to receive Christ. Then get yourself into a Bible believing church.

Any-deer permit applications available

Application forms for Maine's new Any-Deer permit system are now available throughout the state, according to Fish and Game Commissioner Glenn H. Manuel.

Hunters who want a chance at receiving a permit to take a deer of either sex this fall must submit an application before the Aug. 23 deadline. Those who aren't selected in a mid-September chance drawing, and hunters who don't apply, will be allowed to hunt only for antlered bucks during the four-week deer season in November and during the special muzzleloader week in December.

Mr. Manuel said application forms and instructions are available from town offices, license agents, deer tagging stations, and officers of the Fish and Wildlife Department.

He noted that while there is no fee involved with the Any-Deer permit system, hunters must obtain their annual license before they can apply, since the drawing will be based on the hunting license number.

To help hunters with any questions they may have about the permit system, the Fish and Wildlife Department has installed a toll-free phone line during the application period: 1-800-282-2215. Mr. Manuel said the Any-Deer "hot line" will be staffed Monday to Friday, 8 to 5, until Aug. 23.

The Fish and Wildlife Department will issue about 13,500 Any-Deer Permits this year, a number it considers very conservative to allow for continued growth of the deer herd, according to the commissioner.

Permits have been allocated to 16 of the 17 deer management districts—few or none where the deer population is down, greater numbers where the herd is in better shape.

A hunter with a permit may take a deer of either sex in his pre-determined district, or he can hunt "bucks-only" anywhere in the state.

The limit remains one deer per year, regardless of its sex or when it was taken.

Air rifle clinic in Bethel together with biathlon

Daisy Air Rifles and the Pine Tree Biathlon Club will sponsor an air rifle clinic in conjunction with the Maine State Summer Biathlon Championships on Sunday, Aug. 31, at 10 a.m., near the Bethel Airport.

Biathlon is a winter olympic sport that combines cross-country skiing and rifle marksmanship. In the summer, competitors run on foot instead of skiing, and will use air rifles instead of 22 cal. rifles. For those running in the race, the entry fee is $5.

Daisy will provide 14 air rifles, especially suited for teaching boys and girls rifle safety and marksmanship skills. Members of the Maine National Guard and the Pine Tree Biathlon Club will instruct the novices at no cost.

The clinic will be run in conjunction with the Maine State Summer Biathlon Championships. Competitors will run a total of five miles, stopping at the rifle range twice during the race to test their shooting skills in the midst of hard physical exertion. Metal knock-down targets will be used, so competitors know immediately if their shots are good. Each missed shot adds an extra minute to the competitor's elapsed time. The winner is the athlete who can shoot accurately under fatigue and who is also a strong runner.

Formed in 1984, the Pine Tree Biathlon Club is a growing club made up of skiers, shooters, runners, and outdoorsmen. The club conducts races and clinics throughout the year. Kirk Siegel, a four-year member of the United States Biathlon Team is president of the club, and Steve Scott, a member of the Maine National Guard Biathlon Team, is vice president.

People interested in the Aug. 31 race should contact Jay Davis, 824-2355. Those interested in joining the club should contact Steve Scott, 942-5804.

Ms. Huber spoke about her concerns over the burden of state mandates on local budgets, the high cost of worker's comp, the danger of Maine Yankee, and the necessity of developing the state along the lines of traditional industries. Above, she answers questions from the group.
